Mattapoisett Selectmen's Meeting

SEPTEMBER 1, 1987-by VIRGINIA ARRAL

HARBORMASTER/HARBOR PLAN FORMULATED

Steven Mach, harbormaster, met last Tuesday with Selectmen to report on a Coastal Zone Management meeting he attended at which he was told towns will soon be required to devise a Harbor Management Plan.

Mr. Mach said if the town doesn't form its own plan the state will give it one to put goals and objectives together to make one plan. In the meantime, "we can say we have started things in order to comply with the state regulations". Among the things the harbormaster has done are marking the channel so kids can go water skiing and numbering moorings. He said he has put out 65 milk cartons attached to mooring lines asking owners for information as to the boat and its owner. He has had about 20 responses in the last three weeks. When the winter sticks go out he will get more calls, he said. "We need the number of moorings to keep track of illegal moorings. By next year the responses, hopefully, will all be in."

The harbormaster told Board members the town's harbor patrol boat is in fairly decent shape but has broken down a few times. "The boat is really not adequate for emergency service - no way could you lay someone down on a stretcher." He suggested replacement of the boat with a trade-in value of $4,000 to $5,000 towards a $20,000 24-foot boat equipped to handle emergency service.

Selectman Frank Suzan asked what other town harbormasters have for patrol boats and asked Mach to submit a list of the number of emergency calls made this summer with the police department.

On another wharf-related subject, Mach told the Board the town is not collecting all the excise taxes out there (referring to all the boats). "We collected $300. last year. We have 120 new boats this year. Some are so small the owners don't have to pay excise taxes on them. The formula goes by age of the boat and its length. Any boat over 17 feet has to pay an excise tax. However, any boat valued less than $1,000 need not pay."

The harbormaster explained his office generates a lot of paper work and that the small office at the wharf is not sufficient. He said he needs file cabinets. He informed the Board the locker room has 20 lockers for rent; five are not used much. He said he would like to stop renting lockers. The $200. collected doesn't pay the cost of operation. As to a small building for the office, the harbormaster said the Lions' Club president suggested they might get involved in helping to build an office storage space. He did recommend keeping 3/4 of the lockers.

The storage of gasoline is not allowed in the lockers but an old two-gallon can was found by detecting the odor. Selectman Suzan said he has a locker at the wharf he uses for gear. He agreed there should be a harbormaster's office at the wharf.

Discussion on the stickers and mooring numbers will also go into effect this year, he said. A boat owner must show a receipt from the paid excise tax before a sticker is given. State law says that if the excise tax is not paid, there will be no sticker; therefore no mooring.

A final item for discussion was the oil tank on the wharf. Selectman Suzan said he was under the impression the tank was town-owned but operated by Brownell Boat Works. Selectman William Hubbard explained the tank was installed there following the 1954 hurricane and was operated by Alden Kinney, then Walter Longmore, then William Croft. Eventually, Brownell Boat Works assumed ownership of the tank and pays the town $40. per year for rent. It was noted there should be equipment readily available to handle an oil spill. Mach said he had such equipment to handle an immediate spill and could obtain materials for a more serious spill.

In other business, Selectmen:

MET WITH Al Gentilli of New Bedford and owner of two lots on Angelica Point where a controversy exists on the ownership of a small stretch of land with access to a town-owned beach. The land in question was donated to the town by Mrs. Willis Munro and is located at a point extending from Point Connett. The question is - is the certain section a right-of-way for the town or is it an easement the town has in order to gain access to the beach?

Mr. Gentilli claims to be the owner of lots B1 and B2 as well as the road in front of the lots and 20 feet down to the high tide mark. He related an incident two weeks ago when he was parked in front of his property when a woman came and said the land was town-owned and she was going to park her car. Mr. Gentilli insisted he owned the road; however the lady insisted on parking her car and said, "call the police". "So, I called the police and she went away."

The landowner said he didn't want to quibble with the town or with the residents. "I bought the lots a year ago even though I had been considering buying them for six years. When I was checking the land six years ago a lady in the Assessors' Office and the then Building Inspector, Jonathan DePina, told me that that land was buildable. Having just come from Building Inspector David Crook's office, I have been told the land is not buildable, because there is no frontage on a public way."

Gentilli said the land was surveyed four years ago by Arthur Thompson. Selectman Suzan said "we would like to verify ownership; we only want what's fair and square. We need parking for about four cars. If it's a right-of-way, it cannot be closed."

Mr. Gentilli stressed the shed at

JAPANESE DIGNITARIES RECEIVE MATTAPOISETT ARTIST'S CREATION

Two of Theresa Corey's distinctive lampshades will grace the homes of a Crown Prince of Japan and the Mayor of a town in Japan. Owner of the Golden Pineapple gift shop at 1 County Road in Mattapoisett, Mrs. Corey has been commissioned by the Millicent Library in Fairhaven to make two identical lampshades for dignitaries visiting Fairhaven from Japan.

Library Trustee, Mrs. Corey was informed that the lampshades will be placed on a candlestick base of solid brass made by Williamsburg Craft Shop of Williamsburg, Virginia. The first of the lamps was presented to Mayor Kiysoki Izum of Tosashimizu last Tuesday at ceremonies at the Millicent Library by Earl J. Dias, chairman of the Library Trustees. The town of Tosashimizu is noted as the birthplace of Manjiro Nakahama, a young Japanese boy of 14 who was brought to live in Fairhaven in 1841 on the New Bedford whaler "John Howland" by Captain William H. Whitfield.

The story of Manjiro Nakahama and his connection with Fairhaven began on Sunday, June 27, 1841 in the South Sea Isles when five distressed people were taken from an island. Among those rescued was Manjiro Nakahama, who became so attached to Captain Whitfield that he begged to be allowed to complete the voyage and come to America. He lived with Captain Whitfield until 1847. During that time his name was Anglicized to plain John Mung.

The second identical lamp will be presented to Japanese Crown Prince Akihito when he visits Fairhaven on October 4th. While in Fairhaven the Crown Prince will visit points of interest in the story of Manjiro Nakahama, created on the lampshade to denote significant meaning to the Japanese boy raised by Captain Whitfield.

Among the well-known views of Fairhaven depicted on the 14-inch lampshade are: the Millicent Library, which houses many artifacts relating the Manjiro Nakahama story. At one time the library held a Samurai sword donated in 1918 "to the people of Fairhaven to express appreciation for the Captain's kindness and hospitality shown by the town's people". The sword was a gift of Dr. Toichiro Nakahama, Manjiro's son and a renowned physician in Tokyo University's hospital.

Unfortunately, in 1977 the original Samurai Sword was stolen. A similar one was donated in 1982 by Professor Tadashi Kikouka of Seton Hall University in New Jersey, who heard of the missing sword and fortunately found an appropriate replacement in Pennsylvania. This new sword had an added significance and symbolizes the goodwill and friendship between the two people of the two nations. This goodwill has continued to today with the visits of the Mayor and Crown Prince of Japan.

The second view on the lampshade is that of Fairhaven Town Hall. A third is the old Captain Whitfield farm on Sconticut Neck, where Manjiro lived upon his arrival in Fairhaven after a brief stay with the captain's relatives. A fourth scene is that of the second home of Captain and Mrs. Whitfield, a Cape Cod style house on Cherry Street, now the home of Mr. and Mrs. Benson Morris.

A fifth view is the old fieldstone one-room schoolhouse on North Street where John Mung (the Anglicized name) attended the elementary grades. The sixth view is that of the former Bartlett Naval Academy on Spring Street. At this Academy, John Mung was instructed in mathematics and navigation. After his return to Japan, he was commissioned to teach English and navigation to the naval schools of Japan.

Mrs. Corey has been designing and handcrafting these lovely lampshades for 10 years. The scenes are cut so that the light shines through the shade and outlines the buildings and/or scenes of specific interest. Many of these shades grace the homes of Mattapoisett residents and those in the surrounding area. She previously made a shade for the Millicent Library for the former director, the late Rita Steele. Other shades are four commissioned by the New Bedford Institution for Savings

This year's T.V. Turn-Off money will be combined with last year's money to support after school programs for the students of Rochester Memorial School, such as drama, arts and crafts, karate, etc. In a survey given to parents of Memorial School students this past spring, parents expressed a tremendous support for after school activities. This coincides with a recent survey of teachers and parents by the Louis Harris Poll where teachers cited supervised activities after school as a large determiner in a student's academic success. LETTER TO THE EDITOR

P.A.I.N.T. ORR (People Allied in a New Tack at ORR) would like to take this opportunity to thank the generous businesses who supported our summer tri-town community effort. These donations consisted of financial contributions, materials, and time.

Without their support and commitment, the goals of painting needed areas of the ORR High School would never have been met. Businesses from within the tri-town area and surrounding areas came together to support this project to benefit all the students within the ORR district.

Our thanks and appreciation go to:

the three communities who worked on the two paint weekends. Without their time and effort the project would not have been possible.

It is with great pride that we thank the PAINT ORR committee for their dedication and caring displayed throughout the project. Each one did a most important job. On the surface they helped to give the school a shiny new appearance, but more importantly they created a new tack for ORR - one which is positive and supportive. Heartfelt thanks to each one of you.

Actions speak louder than words. All in all, this tri-town community effort has demonstrated a clear cut statement of support for ORR and its students.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
ON GROWTH MANAGEMENT
submitted by Peter Kortright

During recent meetings of the Mattapoisett Growth Management Study Committee concern has been raised that the townspeople either don't know what the Committee is doing or have the perception that the Committee isn't or won't do anything. Whether or not these concerns are true, this writer decided to provide some answers to several commonly asked questions regarding the Growth Management Study.

Q: WHAT IS GROWTH MANAGEMENT?

A: Growth management seeks to involve the citizens of Mattapoisett in an ongoing process of study, education, decision, action and implementation. After the study and education phase, specific steps will be recommended which will be aimed at improving the effectiveness of town government in guiding growth and development and in solving problems already caused by growth and development.

Q: WHAT SPECIFIC STEPS MIGHT BE RECOMMENDED?

A: We don't know yet. In many communities that are involved in growth management, recommendations have included general zoning revisions, special development restrictions and incentives, development of design review committees, improved sanitary system regulations, capital plans for water, sewer and traffic systems, harbor and waterfront master plans and improved procedures for evaluating specific development proposals to ensure that developers know what they can and cannot do before they do it. The steps may range from legal to administrative to financial.

Q: WHAT HAS THE MATTAPOISETT GROWTH MANAGEMENT STUDY COMMITTEE DONE SO FAR?

A: The committee has met approximately eight times throughout the spring and summer. We have reviewed some 300 questionnaires and are in the process of completing the tabulation of results. Most of the meetings have been lively and very candid discussions about problems facing the town and about how the Committee should approach solving the problems. At nearly all of the meetings there have been new participants with different problems and ideas about what needs to be done. Six subcommittees have been initiated and each is currently evaluating how to approach the problems assigned to it. Subcommittees include: Housing and Community Services;

Q: HOW DOES THE COMMITTEE VIEW ITS ROLE?

A: Almost all of the participants to date share the view that the Committee must take a strong leadership role in designing and advocating an effective growth management program. We feel that this means thorough definition and study of the town's problems and possible solutions. It means reaching out to as many citizens and special interest groups as possible to ensure that specific proposals reflect community needs and are politically practical. In this regard, the Committee realizes that it must propose real changes in historically controversial areas such as zoning. In order that zoning and other possibly more innovative and progressive changes be acceptable to town voters at town meeting, the Committee will seek to educate townspeople about both the benefits of decisive action and about the risks of not taking action.

Q: WHAT ARE SOME OF THE RISKS OF NOT TAKING ACTION?

A: While we haven't yet defined all of them yet, the Committee has discussed many possible risks including increased pollution, water shortages, overbuilding in sensitive environmental areas, poorly planned and designed commercial development along Route Six and unacceptable crowding and traffic congestion in certain parts of town. Many of these risks are already evident. Others may not become evident until it is too late to manage or avoid them. We know from the surveys and from our discussions to date that all of our citizens want to avoid these problems.

Q: WHAT ARE THE NEXT STEPS IN THE GROWTH MANAGEMENT PROCESS?

A: The Committee has decided to form subcommittees or working groups to study specific aspects of town growth. Very shortly we will issue clear goal statements, work tasks and progress schedules for each subcommittee. Right now we want to encourage concerned citizens to join in the work effort. Throughout the fall and winter each subcommittee will meet frequently as a task force to accomplish its work plan. We will need volunteers to help with research, mapping, public discussion meetings, attitude survey work, writing, by-law review and drafting and just general problem solving. You do not need special skills but if you have them they will be greatly appreciated.

Q: HOW LONG WILL THE PROCESS TAKE?

A: We don't know yet. Some of the subcommittees will complete their initial assignments sooner than others. Some may need to seek additional help from the regional planning agency or from the state either in the form of technical assistance or planning grants to hire professional help. Many of the members of the Committee are anxious to take action soon but we hope to stick to our goal of deliberate study, education and careful development of action items so that our efforts survive into implementation. In one sense, we hope that the growth management process never ends. The responsibility to manage our affairs is an eternally ongoing process particularly when we remember that we are seeking to Keep Mattapoisett Special not only for ourselves but for future generations.

Q: WILL THE COMMITTEE REALLY GET THE VOLUNTEERS IT NEEDS?

A: We hope so. We know that everybody is busy. Those of us who have participated so far are very busy too. To those who say they are too busy already, we would like to point out that this will be a challenging and rewarding experience. One of the most exciting aspects of our meetings to date is that they are totally open and we get a real sense that we can make a difference. It will take time and hard work. The responsibility of democracy is involvement and participation. Nobody else will do it for us.

Letters to the Editor

I have just had six red letter days in succession; days when I went to the local post office and found that our box contained only what belonged in it. I am not sure of the reason for the change, unless it is that our postmaster and his associates concluded that they would have less work if they did it right in the first place. Anyway, I am thankful.

I wish I could say that I am thankful for all of the changes in the U.S. Postal Service over the years since it was started during the Continental Congress and continued under the Constitution, adopted 200 years ago. Article I, Section 8 of the Constitution gives the U.S. Congress the power "to establish post-offices and post-roads"; and "to make all laws which may be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers and all other powers vested by this Constitution in the Government of the United States, or in any department or officer thereof".

In the early days, the mail was carried on horseback, by stagecoach and by boat. As railroads were built, all or a part of a car was given over to the mail and much of the sorting was done there. Around 1850 Henry D. Thoreau of Concord and David Ricketson were getting overnight service for their letters to each other; better than they could do now since the present Postal Service organization has moved New Bedford and a number of other Massachusetts municipalities to Providence, Rhode Island to make use of its Rube Goldberg machinery located there.

Until 1971, the Post-Office Department was a bureau of the Federal Government, headed by the Postmaster General, who was a member of the President's Cabinet. One I remember especially was James Farley, President Roosevelt's campaign manager, who held the job beginning in 1933. He increased the use of air mail, for which the stamp was five cents, compared to the usual three cents. I was working in New York during part of his term and had several clients on the West Coast; and I could get an airmail letter delivered to any of them on the following day. In 1943 I moved my office to New Bedford and enjoyed delivery service twice a day, at 8 a.m. and 2 p.m. Rates increased modestly, but letter-postage was still seven cents in the 1960s.

There was criticism of the Department from various quarters generally that it was too political and not sufficiently business-like, with the result that it had to be subsidized by Congress each year. During Richard Nixon's first term, the Congress was persuaded to abolish the Cabinet Office of Postmaster General and the department headed by him. The new law, effective July 1, 1971, established a Board of Governors, consisting of nine members appointed by the President with Senate approval and a Postmaster General and a Deputy Postmaster General, who are appointed by these nine. There is a separate Postal Rate Commission of five persons appointed by the President, whose recommendations for rate changes are subject to approval and adoption by the Board, independently of Congress; although subsidies, which have continued, require Congressional appropriations.

What are the results to date? The Union has seen its opportunities and has acted accordingly as to both wages and work-rules, letter postage has gone from seven to twenty-two cents, and there is continuing pressure to make it a quarter. As for improvement in the service to the public, perhaps it can be described as a "mixed bag".

QUESTION:

WHY SHOULD ATHLETES HAVE CHIROPRACTIC SPINAL MANIPULATION?

ANSWER: Because it can help their performance.

Many amateur and professional athletes are sidelined with injuries that could be avoided. Others sit it out on the bench because their injury just doesn't seem to respond to ordinary treatment. Still others are playing, but at less than their peak efficiency simply because their structural system is not in balance.

Progressive coaches and trainers are realizing that pain-killing drugs are not the answer. Drugs and medications merely cover up the symptom, deceiving the player into actions which could make the injury more serious.

Probably more than any other health profession, chiropractic's approach to health closely relates to the needs of the sports participant. Most sports involve body contact, leverage, fast starts and stops, and positioning that places an unusual strain on the back and structural system. Doctors of chiropractic consider the human as an integrated being, giving special attention to spinal mechanics and neurological, muscular and vascular relationships. Chiropractic is a natural health care method that stresses the importance of keeping all the systems of the body functioning efficiently, so the player enjoys peak performance, a minimum injury risk and fast recuperative powers.

Here's what you can do:

- Make certain that your athletes are properly prepared for the sport. Preventive care dictates the wisdom of visiting a doctor of chiropractic for a spinal examination on a regular basis. If the diagnosis shows anything not within the scope of chiropractic treatment, the conscientious doctor of chiropractic will refer the athlete to one of the other health specialties.
- Make certain that a doctor of chiropractic is a member of your health team. Many of the high-performing professional and amateur teams have retained doctors of chiropractic as their team physicians.
- Minimize the use of drugs and medications and utilize natural health methods.

OLD ROCHESTER REGIONAL STUDENTS COMPLETE SECOND ANNUAL PEER LEADERSHIP INSTITUTE

Three Old Rochester Regional students were among nearly two hundred young people from across Massachusetts who recently participated in three days of intensive physical challenges and psychological development seminars to aid them in helping other young people say no to drugs at a Peer Leadership Conference co-sponsored by the Governor's Alliance Against Drugs and the Massachusetts Prevention Centers.

Andy Pawelcyzk, Jennifer Stanley, Tim Rodrigues and peer advisor Penelope Busher took part in workshops and seminars from August 18-20 on Thompson Island in Boston Harbor which focused on drug and alcohol prevention education, but with emphasis placed on leadership, communication, decision making, self-esteem, and other skills necessary to help young people cope with the pressures of adolescence.

The students and their advisors will bring back to their communities a plan of action, designed to implement the extensive training they received at the Peer Institute. This includes working with youngsters in the elementary schools to educate them about the dangers of drug and alcohol abuse.

The Peer Institute, funded by WCVB-TV, Channel 5, as part of its "Don't Be Pushed" campaign, filmed several parts of the program which will be aired at a later date. Channel 5 news reporter Susan Wornick and Attorney General James Shannon spoke with the students and observed some of them taking part in the "ropes course", a challenging obstacle course designed to build self-confidence among the students.

This year's Peer Institute program is the second such statewide program held in Massachusetts, and will further development and expansion of community peer programs already in place in the Commonwealth.

The Institute also featured a performance by the Improbably Players and a dance with music provided by the band, "Hot Pursuit". Snacks and sodas were provided courtesy of

Lisbon Chorale

TO PERFORM AT SMU

"Coro de Camara de Lisboa" -- the Lisbon Chorale -- will present a concert at 8 p.m. September 19th in the recital hall, College of Visual and Performing Arts (Group VI), Southeastern Massachusetts University.

The 20-member group comprises students and former students of the Conservatorio Nacional in Lisbon, and performs a capella works from the Renaissance period to modern times.

Their program at SMU will begin with religious songs and troubador music. The Chorale will then present 19th and 20th century folk and contemporary songs. Among their more popular songs is "Tres Esconjuros", an incantation against "bad encounters, recalcitrant husbands, and thunderstorms", said Mary Vermette, staff associate of SMU's Center for the Portuguese Speaking World.

The Center is the local sponsor for the group's stop at SMU, part of a tour organized by the Institute for Emigration and the Portuguese Communities with the support of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the

IRS Reminder

The third installment of estimated federal tax payments on 1987 individual income is due by September 15, 1987, John D. Johnson, District Director of IRS in Massachusetts, said.

"This installment should be paid by using declaration voucher 3 found in the Form 1040-ES package, 'Declaration of Estimated Tax for Individuals'", Johnson added.

Taxpayers whose anticipated income changed during 1986 may have to file an amended declaration. Space is provided in the estimated tax package to compute an amended estimate.

Taxpayers should be aware that a penalty will be charged for underpayment of estimated tax.

For more detailed information, IRS Publication 505, "Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax", is available free by writing the IRS or by calling toll-free 1-800-424-FORM.

Mary K. Campbell, Mount Holyoke chemistry professor and coordinator of the student project, said the college's departments of Biological Sciences, Chemistry, Math and Physics will be represented at the event: in biology, students will determine whether certain species of clam emit an enzyme; in chemistry, they will measure the rates of various chemical reactions; in math they will conduct computer demonstrations with a lengthy calculation of pi; and in physics, they will study matter/anti-matter annihilation.

The experiments will be conducted in a college lab setting, with the high school students assuming the role of "class" as they complete their projects, and the Mount Holyoke students acting as "teaching assistants" as they direct the experiments.

SMU Youth Orchestra STARTS FOURTH SEASON

Southeastern Massachusetts University's Youth Orchestra begins its fourth season on September 12th, and invites young musicians throughout the region to participate.

The orchestra and associated ensemble groups are intended for young people who live in southeastern Massachusetts and Rhode Island. The young musicians practice together under the guidance of professional musicians each Saturday morning, and present programs for the public several times during the year. Auditions are required for membership.

The orchestra is among the Spotlight programs operated through SMU's Projects for High Learning Potential. Orchestra manager is Beth Easterly.

Four groups -- the wind ensemble, full orchestra, string ensemble, and string reading group -- will begin meeting on September 12th.

The wind ensemble and the full orchestra are open to students in Grades 7 and above. The wind ensemble, with Gene Crisafulli conducting, will meet from 9 to 10 a.m. in Room 104 of the College of Visual and Performing Arts Building.
